TREE WARDEN'S REPORT.

I have attended to my duties as Tree Warden, and would say there being no appropriation at my disposal, I have confined my operations principally to suggestions from the Selectmen and such duties as arose from time to time.

This past year being the first under the existing law, I was anxious to get some idea of the extent of my duty. I have counted over eleven hundred transplanted trees within the limits of the highways and the common grounds. There must be many besides that I have not seen, and from careful observation I estimate the transplanted trees to constitute about ten per cent. of the trees which are or soon will be valuable shade trees. So it will be seen that the trees which come under the protection of the town are quite an item.

These trees should, from year to year, receive a certain amount of attention, and it might be deemed expedient to plant a limited number of trees each year in and about the different villages of the town as the citizens might dictate.

In some places guards should be used to protect from horses.

Our trees are liable any year to become infested with insect pests, which at present we have no means of combating. The greatest danger which menaces our trees is from corporations which do business in and through our town by means of wires. In the past, in the construction of lines, trees have been mercilessly cut and mutilated, but under the present law I trust these abuses will be largely prevented.

I would suggest that all tree-loving citizens co-operate with the Tree Warden to prevent violations of the law.

> GEORGE B. B. WRIGHT, Tree Warden.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

AND

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

OF THE

TOWN OF CHELMSFORD.

FOR THE

SCHOOL YEAR ENDING 1900-1901.

LOWELL, MASS.: Courier-Citizen Co., Printers. 1901.

REPORT OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The past year has been one of great prosperity in our schools. The fact that no complaints have been made to your committee has led them to think that their efforts to bring about a high standard in our schools have been appreciated by both parents and pupils. We feel a just pride in the unity of purpose and spirit with which your committee has sought to guard the interests entrusted to their care. Twenty-three meetings have been held by the committee, at which all the members were present. In order that we might perform our trust more intelligently, the schools and schoolhouses in various parts of the town have been visited by the entire committee to ascertain their needs, and to get better acquainted with the teachers and their work. We have tried, and successfully, we think, to maintain uniform instruction throughout the town, so that from the first grade to the end of the high school course there is unity of aim and purpose. We believe, if the town will adopt uniformity of instruction as its settled policy, improving it from year to year, that soon all our schools will bear an enviable reputation. It is a matter of congratulation that no longer are our boys and girls going away from home to be educated, but rather we are attracting pupils from other communities to our schools. The approval of the high school at the Centre by the State Board of Education enables pupils attending our high school from towns whose valuation is less than $500,000 to be reimbursed of their tuition by the Commonwealth. Four scholars have been in attendance during the past year.

TRANSPORTATION.

Adjustments to new conditions are always difficult. We cannot but praise the patience and forbearance with which many parents and pupils have borne the inevitable disappointments through the introduction of the new system of transportation. We believe, however, that the pupils have been benefited in consequence of more efficient instruction than was otherwise possible. We recommend an increased appropriation for transportation during the coming year, be'ieving that it is wise economy for the town.

SUPERINTENDENCE.

The committee deem it wise to maintain the present union with the towns of Dunstable and Carlisle in the matter of school superintendence. Last April a new arrangement was made with the foregoing towns, so that now we receive fifteentwentieths of the Superintendent's time. The new arrangement will, we hope, be of great value to our schools.

SCHOOLHOUSES.

Your committee believe that repairs upon school property should be made when needed. The repairs and improvements made during the past year were an urgent necessity. We recommend the following repairs and improvements, viz.:

1. That the grounds about the Golden Cove School be suitably graded.

2. The renovation of the interior of the West Chelmsford school building: A new floor in the upper room; the tinting of the walls, and the repair of broken ceiling.

3. The repainting of the building at East Chelmsford.

4. Storm porches on the back entrances of the new building at North Chelmsford, and new blackboards in the upper room of the old school building.

5. At the Centre, attention should be paid to the sanitary arrangements in the basement, and to a more effective method of catching and carrying away the water from the roofs.

In conclusion, we wish to thank the Superintendent and teachers for their work and co-operation during the past year, and all who have helped us by their friendly and timely suggestions.

Respectfully submitted,

A. J. PARK, STEWART MACKAY, ERNEST C. BARTLETT.

COMPARISONS.

In looking over the reports of past years, I found that the total membership of the schools did not change very much during the decade which ended with the year 1890. But since that time there has been a decided increase in the school population, and, as would be expected, it has been about the same, relatively, as the increase in the entire population. In 1890, there were 2695 people enumerated in Chelmsford; and in 1900, 3984. an increase of nearly fifty per cent. The increase in the school attendance is indicated by the figures given below:

Average attendance fo	• 1879-'80		•	 353
	• 1889-'90
	• 1894-'95
Average attendance fo	• 1899-'00			 556

These figures show that the largest increase has taken place in the last five years. This rapid growth in numbers has made the school problem a perplexing one, calling as it does for enlarged school accommodations and an increased teaching force. In 1890, fifteen teachers were employed; in 1900, twentyone. Although this increase is not as great in per cents, as is that of scholars, yet, as nearly as I can make out, at least two years more of instruction are provided for the children than ten years ago. The cost of this is what will interest every taxpayer. And that it may be looked at comparatively, I have taken a few items from the reports for the years named.

	1890	1895	1900
Teaching	$5,431 20	$5,635 30	$7,761 38
Care of houses	296 53	352 85	527 45
Fuel	368 26	360 10	793 34
Text books and supplies	576 70	666 87	710 83
Apparatus, maps and globes	253 13	89 01	174 99
Superintendent	200 00	200 00	*900 00
Incidentals	219 96	233 09	917 20
Fitting room	133 63
Transportation			1,077 80
Total	$7,479 41	$7,537 22	$12,862 99

*Because of the employment of a district superintendent, the state granted the town $750. Of this sum, $450 was applied to the superintendent's salary, and $300 to the increased salaries of teachers.

The average attendance increased slightly over sixty-two per cent. for the decade ending in the year 1900. The total expenditures for the schools vary slightly from that, but the items are distributed a little differently. Had the amount paid for teaching increased in the same ratio, the bill for 1900 would have been more than a thousand dollars larger than it was. Looking at it in one way, the relative diminution in this item has been practically offset by the new item of transportation.

The bills for fuel and janitor service have increased in greater proportion than the average attendance. However, I will venture to say that the returns received in rooms heated, ventilated, and cared for better will more than compensate for the increased outlay.

The amount expended for text-books, apparatus, supplies, etc., in 1890 was just about the same as in 1900. An addition of sixty-two per cent, for these items would have made them amount to a sum exceeding by over four hundred dollars the amount that was actually spent. To economize at this point is like riding in a parlor car for a portion of a journey, and then, for lack of funds, walking the remainder of the way.

Passing by the next item, to which I have referred in a footnote, we come to the incidental expenses. In 1900, this included four items which did not appear in that classification in 1800; viz.: Rent, school census, payments to the School Committee for services, and furniture. The amount of these items was $436.30, which, subtracted from the total amount, leaves a sum which is not so far out of proportion.

Taken as a whole, the direct expense to the town for each pupil has diminished rather than increased. For, by subtracting the amounts received from the State from the total expenditures, and dividing the results by the total membership, we find that each pupil cost by direct taxation $15.79 in 1890, and $14.67 in 1900.

We can but conclude, therefore, that the school finances have been managed conservatively. This seems especially true, if we accept the statements in a recent magazine article, that the expenses of the Federal government have increased twenty per cent. in the last fourteen years, and that town and municipal expenses have shown a similar increase. Also, by comparing with other towns, we learn that the educational outlays in Chelmsford are far from excessive. In order to substantiate this statement, I have taken the figures in the table below from the report of the State Board of Education for 1898-'99:

Number of towns in the state that have appropriated more per pupil.	TOWNS.	Sum appropriated by towns for each child between 5 and 15 years of age.	Percentage of valua- tion appropriated to public schools- equivalent to mills and hundredths of mills.	Number of towns which raise a larger percentage.

TRANSPORTATION.

The transportation service has been much better than it was on the whole, the most satisfactory. And yet, the wagons that are now in use are well covered, so that the children are protected from the weather.

Those receiving the benefits of transportation facilities, February 20, were distributed as follows:

From the Byam district	20
From the Perham district	27
From East Chelmsford by wagon	-/
From East Chelmsford by electrics	17
From Tyngsboro line	18
From Lowell line	17
From West Chelmsford by steam cars	2
From South Chelmsford by steam cars	õ

AGE AND SCHOOLING CERTIFICATES.

The law provides that "No child under fourteen years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop, or mercantile establishment, nor shall any such child be employed in any work performed for wages during the hours when the public schools are in session, nor be employed at any work before six o'clock in the morning or after seven o'clock in the evening."

It further provides that "No child under sixteen years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop, or mercantile establishment unless his employer procures and keeps on file an age and schooling certificate."

According to the provisions of this law twenty-three certificates were granted during the year ending August 1, 1900. A fact of some interest in this connection is that four of the parents who signed the certificates were obliged to make their mark in place of writing their names. Had they lived where a compulsory education law was enforced this would not have occurred, as it will not occur in the case of their children if they live within the bounds of the State for any length of time. This leads me to speak of the compulsory law.

THE COMPULSORY LAW.

Chapter 496 of the Acts of 1898 requires every child between seven and fourteen years of age to attend some public day school if he is in good health, has not acquired the branches of learning required by law to be taught in the public schools, and is not attending some private day school. The Superintendent may excuse cases of necessary absence. Furthermore, any person who has under his control a child of the age mentioned above, and fails to send him to school for five day sessions or for ten half-day sessions within a period of six months, upon complaint by a truant officer, becomes liable to a fine.

While the provisions of this law have been complied with in the main, yet I feel that greater vigilance on the part of those who have children in charge would cause some to attend school more regularly than they do.

I earnestly solicit the active co-operation of parents and guardians so that the requirements of the law may be met.

TEXT-BOOKS AND INSTRUCTION.

In my report last year, I called attention to the poor condition of the books that were being used in the schools. It gives me pleasure to report at this time that that condition has been greatly improved. It is doubtful whether the time will even come when a child will always be provided with a book entirely clean and entirely whole. Yet I think that we should approximate that condition within reasonable bounds. Generally speaking, the better the book, the more care will the child take in preserving its cleanliness and its entirety. This past year, I have noticed some children taking especial pains with new books, even placing small pieces of paper on the book where their fingers and thumb came when reading, so that the pages might not become soiled. Such carefulness should be commended, not simply because it saves the book, but because it encourages the child to form a desirable habit.

The grammars and language books place in the schools at the beginning of the fall term have, thus far, given good satisfaction, and have made possible a much greater uniformity in the work.

The new spelling books have given a fresh impetus to the study of that branch of learning which, I think, is producing good results, as the impression made upon me by reading test papers is that the words are better spelled than they were a year ago. Some children, it is true, seem to lack the power of learning to spell correctly. The most that can be done in such cases is to do the best possible and let the matter rest there. But in many other cases, poor spelling is due to sheer carelessness and lack of observation. In dealing with such pupils, there should be no relaxation of effort before good spelling is obtained. Another new book now being used in the schools is the Ward Primer. This is the first book in a series of readers designed for use in teaching the Rational Method of Reading, originated by Edward G. Ward of Brooklyn, N. Y., and which professes to embody the best features of the word, sentence, and phonetic methods.

In the beginning, the child learns to read short sentences from the blackboard, composed of easy words that he is taught to recognize. At the same time, drill is given on the sounds of the following letters and combinations of letters: F, l, m, n, r, s, a, e, o, ing, ings, ight, ights. These are called phonograms.

The next step is to form words by combining these sounds with each other or with the sight words already learned. Thus, with the phonogram ight, the child is taught to combine in turn f, l, m, n, r, and s, forming the words fight, light, might, night, right, and sight. New words and phonograms are added constantly, until by the end of the year the child should have a vocabulary of from two thousand to four thousand words, besides the ability to discover for himself the pronunciation of many more.

The work in history has been enriched by giving the children of the fourth grade instruction in the history of Chelmsford. This was undertaken in some of the schools a year ago. Both teachers and children took such an interest in the work that I was encouraged to introduce the study in all of the schools which had a fourth grade. Accordingly, all the children of that classification have been receiving such instruction this past wirter. Of course, the work is very simple. I believe, however, that it has value in that it gives the children a little insight into what has taken place in their own town since its first settlement. And, further, I hope that it will tend to give them a taste for history and make of it a study more vividly real.

Physiology and hygiene, nature study, drawing, music, and gymnastics are receiving some attention in nearly all of the schools.

A special teacher of music and drawing would place the work in those subjects on a much more satisfactory basis.

I would recommend also that the supply of readers be increased, and that new dictionaries be placed in many of the schools.

TEACHERS' MEETINGS.

Three general teachers' meetings have been held within the year covered by this report. The first was at North Chelmsford, May 4, 1000. At this meeting, excellent papers were read by Misses H. G. Fulton, Agnes Naylor, L. S. Copeland and Mrs. A. H. Park of the teaching force, and by Dr. F. E. Varney and Rev. R. W. Dunbar, citizens of the village.

The next meeting was at the Centre, November 27, 1900, at which Mr. J. W. Macdonald, Agent of the State Board of Education, spoke to the teachers on the subject, "Arithmetic." His thorough familiarity with the different methods and devices that may be used in teaching this subject, and his clear presentation of them, made of this an interesting and profitable afternoon.

The third meeting was at North Chelmsford, January 3, 1901. By way of preparation for this meeting, I had informed the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. A. W. Clark of Boston, of some of the difficulties with which the teachers had met in teaching penmanship. Mr. Clark was therefore ready to speak to the point, which he did so successfully that good results have followed.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

Early last May, the principal of the high school at the Centre, Mr. D. H. Fletcher, had an offer of a much more lucrative position in Needham, and, in consequence, tendered his resignation. Fortunately, his predecessor, Mr. C. W. Averell, was so situated that he could take the position for the remainder of the year. His acquaintance with the school enabled him to complete the year's work without what might have been a serious interruption. The present principal, Mr. C. H. Knowlton, began work in September.

Shortly after the beginning of the fall term, Mr. A. W. Trubey, principal of the school at the North, resigned the position which he had held for eight years. Mr. Percy F. Parsons accepted the offer to take charge of the schools and began work at once, assisted by Miss Grace M. Heartz, who was selected for the position left vacant by the resignation of Miss Josephine Eaton.

Notwithstanding these changes and the greater or less loss of time necessary to readjustment to different conditions, excellent work is being done in both schools. Nineteen high school subjects are being taught at the Centre, and nine at the North.

The subjects offered in the high schools and the time given to each are as follows: English, four years; Latin, four years, Greek, three years; French, two years; Roman and Grecian History, General History, English History, Civics, Bookkeeping and Commercial Arithmetic, Geometry, Physics, and Chemistry, one year each; Physical Geography, Botany, and Solid Geometry, one-half of a year each.

As there were some pupils from out of town attending the Centre school, with the consent of the Chairman of the Committee, I wrote to State Secretary Hill early in the fall, asking if the school might be placed on the list of schools approved by the State Board of Education. Accordingly, a representative of the Board visited the school and reported favorably. This gives the school a standing with similar schools of the State not heretofore enjoyed. Further, it means that towns whose valuation is less than five hundred thousand dollars may send children here, and be reimbursed by the State for the money expended for their tuition. Without such approval by the State Board, this reimbursement would not be made, and the children would be sent to schools that were approved. Just how much this may be worth to Chelmsford in dollars and cents, it is, of course, impossible to tell. But it seems entirely reasonable to expect quite a little revenue from this source, which will, as far as it goes, assist in defraying the expenses of the school.

High schools cost money, it is true, and well-equipped schools cost more than they did fifty years ago. But whether a town in Massachusetts wishes to or not, the Statutes require it to furnish its children with the opportunities for a high school education. As already stated, towns with a valuation less than five hundred thousand dollars may be reimbursed for money expended for high school tuition. As Chelmsford is not in that list, it must depend upon its own resources to furnish the necessary revenue.

The instruction itself may be provided in different ways. The pupils might be sent to Lowell. In this case, the bill for tuition for the current school year would be not far from thirtyfive hundred dollars, and if transportation should be added, the total bill would be not far from four thousand dollars. Between this sum and the amount that our high schools are now costing, there is a wide difference. For, granting that men are needed as principals of our two largest schools, high school instruction is costing Chelmsford less than fifteen hundred dollars a year.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Trustees of the Adams Library

OF THE

TOWN OF CHELMSFORD, MASS.

FOR THE

Year Ending February 28, 1901.

LOWELL, MASS.: Courier-Citizen Co., Printers. 1901.

LIBRARY REPORT.

The Board of Trustees of the Adams Library herewith submit its annual report. The Board organized by the choice of J. Adams Bartlett, as Chairman, and Miss Emma J. Gay, as Secretary and Treasurer. Various sub-committees were appointed to carry on the work of the Library during the year. The financial condition of the Library is shown in the Treasurer's report, which is submitted herewith. The circulation of the Library for the past year has been 10,433 volumes. The number of borrowers has been 422.

The circulation is classified as follows: Fiction 64 per cent., general works 9, travel 5, literature 5, biography 3, natural science 3, useful arts 1, fine arts 1, religion and philosophy 2, sociology 3, history 6.

The Library and Reading Room have been open 201 sessions, or $846\frac{1}{2}$ hours. The whole number of books now in the Library is 6,368. There has been purchased in the last year 247 volumes. Sixty-one volumes have been donated from various sources, and the Board of Trustees extend to all our friends their sincere thanks for the kindly gifts. All these books so received have been labeled with the donor's name, and placed on the shelves.

We also extend our thanks to the publishers of the Lowell Journal and Morning Mail, and also to other kind friends who have remembered the Reading Room by the placing of various papers on its table.

The Trustees note with pleasure the increased use of the Reading Room by older people, and we are led to believe that the usefulness of the Reading Room is becoming better known and appreciated by that class of readers. Better general order has been observed the past year, and the general usefulness of the whole Library has been increased thereby.

The patrons of the Library of South Chelmsford have had their regular bi-weekly service as in the past.

Early in the year, Mrs. N. B. Lapham, who has taken charge of the exchange of books at her residence since the establishment of the South Chelmsford branch, and whose faithful care contributed much to its success, owing to changes in her family found it best to discontinue her care of the books. Mr. Ferdinand M. Scaboria then kindly consented to take charge of the books at his store. Our cordial thanks are extended both to Mrs. Lapham and to Mr. Scaboria.

During the past year the Trustees have received from the Social Library the funds which they held, and which the town at its last annual meeting voted to accept in trust. This has been deposited in the name of the town in the City Institution for Savings, in Lowell, in accordance with the vote of the town, and is known as the Adams-Emerson fund of seventy-five dollars ($75.00), and the Joseph Warren fund of $593.14.

The Library can only use the interest of these funds, and the Treasurer has drawn the sum of $29.04 as accrued interest.

These are the first and only endowment funds that have come to the Library, and the Trustees express their hope that more may be added in the future. The Trustees again call the attention of the public to the beautiful cabinet provided for relics, papers and documents, of interest to the town, and ask that any historical papers which can be spared may be placed there. This can be made of great value to future generations, and at the same time provide a place of safe keeping for many valuable papers, etc., that might otherwise be lost. To all who have so generously contributed to the collection we extend our hearty thanks.

The Trustees desire to acknowledge the devotion of the Librarian to his work, and for many services rendered without compensation we tender him our sincere thanks, and we only hope that the Board of Trustees may be able to retain his service in the future.

The Library has been open 151 sessions during the year, and the circulation for home use has been 5,531. No record has been kept of the volumes used for reference at the Library. Three hundred and ten borrower's cards have been used, 65 of the number being issued during the year. One hundred and seventy-one volumes have been added, 12 being gifts, and 159 purchased with the town appropriation for that purpose. Two volumes are reported missing and have not been replaced, making the number now on the shelves 3,792. New shelves have recently been added and extra electric lights put in. There have been, during the year, six exhibitions of pictures loaned by the Library Art Club. They comprised collections of original paintings and drawings used to illustrate magazines, and excellent photographs of Florence, Newfoundland, Louisiana, Pekin, Hong Kong, etc., and an especially fine collection representing English country churches.

The Library is again indebted to Miss L. A. Allen of West Chelmsford for her care of the books sent to that section of the town.
