Report of Tree Warden.

As Tree Warden of the town, I report the condition of trees favorable, and, so far as I have been able to ascertain, they are entirely free from insect pests that infest some portions of the Commonwealth, such as the gypsy moth, brown-tailed moth, elm leaf beetle, etc.

GEO. B. B. WRIGHT.

Report of Cemetery Commissioners.

This having been the first year of the existence of your Cemetery Commission, its work has necessarily been largely preliminary; studying what we thought were our needs, and laying plans so that whatever outlay we made would be in line to reaching some definite ends.

We have adopted and put into use the Hayght system of records—a most complete method of retaining a full record of each interment and its location, using a separate record for each cemetery. It is our purpose that these records, when completed, shall contain as perfect reference to past burials, also, as is possible to obtain by the means at our command. This will necessarily mean time and expense, but, in our judgment, should be completed as early as possible.

We have also prepared a form of deed. This we considered essential, as we are unable to find that any lot owner has proof of ownership in any of the various grounds.

After a canvass among those locally interested, your Commissioners have adopted the following names for the different cemeteries: "Forefathers," for that formerly known as the Centre cemetery; "Pine Ridge," for the new cemetery at the Centre Village; "Riverside," for the one at the North; "Hart Pond," for the one at the South, and "The West," for that at the West Villages.

During the past season, we have kept such portions of each cemetery as was practicable clipped by lawn-mowers, furnished beds of flowers, and otherwise endeavored to make the grounds neat and attractive.

At the Forefathers a beginning has been made at the older section with a view to generally beautifying the whole. The surface has been spaded and leveled, stones straightened, and that part gone over seeded and rolled. This improvement it is intended to continue, so long as the finances at our command will permit.

At Pine Ridge the drives have been kept free from weeds, and a proportion of the prepared part clipped during the season. The larger area of the cleared portion we have had enriched, plowed, harrowed, raked, seeded and rolled; and, with a good catch, we consider this in perfect condition for future use. A good deal remains to be done here in the way of gravelling drives and walks, setting trees and shrubs, and carrying out the plan upon which the grounds were opened.

At Riverside quite a large number of trees have been planted, and these did well the past season. A much-needed improvement here, which your Commissioners recommend, is the purchase of a small piece of unoccupied land at the easterly end, to give a passageway to and from this section of the grounds; and we urge early action here on the part of the town.

At Hart Pond we have planted a number of trees, and more should be set the coming spring. A new survey of the entire grounds is much needed here, and this we intend having done the coming year.

At The West no decided improvements have been made during the year, but the grounds have been well cared for and neatly kept by Superintendent Parkhurst.

To carry on the work in the five cemeteries and complete the records, we ask you this year for an appropriation of $500.

There is much need of improvement in them all, and, while we realize that but a small showing can be made in any one year, we are anxious to make the work of general improvement progress as rapidly as possible.

A great deal of assistance could be given us by individuals, and we earnestly urge the co-operation of all lot owners to this end. It is a work which many other towns are undertaking. We should not be backward in it, but, as a people, should be proud to make our cemeteries interesting, beautiful and attractive.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

AND

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

OF THE

TOWN OF CHELMSFORD.

FOR THE

SCHOOL YEAR ENDING 1901-1902.

LOWELL, MASS.: COURIER-CITIZEN CO., PRINTERS. 1902.

Report of the School Committee.

An earnest and reasonably successful effort has been made by the committee to keep their expenditures within the limits of the appropriations granted by the town without impairing the efficiency of the schools. That the ends sought, economy of administration and a high standard of scholarship, have been obtained is attested by the facts that the average cost per pupil for the past year is less than the average yearly cost of a scholar ten years ago, and, further, it has been gratifying to the committee to learn that pupils who have removed from town to other communities have been able to enter grades more advanced than the grade they had been in in our own schools.

TRANSPORTATION.

In accordance with the implied wish of the town, as expressed at its last annual meeting, transportation has been somewhat reduced. Scholars over fourteen years of age have been obliged to walk; likewise the children at North Chelmsford and those who came by team from East Chelmsford during settled weather of the spring and fall terms. Transportation is furnished at the present time to 108 pupils.

REPAIRS.

During the summer the sanitary apparatus at the Centre was thoroughly overhauled, at moderate expense, and much needed improvements were made for catching rain water and carrying it off. The approaches to the basement, which were in scandalous condition, were suitably graded and concreted. One of the rooms in the old building at North Chelmsford was refitted so that now it presents an attractive appearance. A new floor was laid in the upper room, and a metallic ceiling was put in the lower room of the building at West Chelmsford. At

Golden Cove the building was repainted, the grounds graded, and a concrete walk laid to the entrance. The committee felt that it would be unwise to spend money upon the old school building at East Chelmsford. We recommend, viz.:

- 1. A careful reading of the Superintendent's report.
- 2. More interest shown by parents in the work of the schools. We welcome timely and friendly suggestions.
- 3. Slate blackboards and retinting of the rooms at West Chelmsford.
- 4. Increased sanitary accommodations at North Chelmsford.
- 5. A two-room school-house at East Chelmsford, so that transportation from that district may be abolished, and the children educated at home.
- 6. A continuance of the present method of school super-intendence.
- 7. The employment of a music teacher, who shall give a portion of her time to the supervision of the teaching of music in our schools.
- 8. Authority to the School Committee whereby appropriations may be transferred from one department to another.

In conclusion, we wish to thank the voters of the town for their liberality to the schools; the parents for their thoughtful consideration; the teachers and Superintendent for their faithfulness, and, finally, the drivers of the transportation teams and the janitors, who have done their work faithfully, and saved the committee from many petty annoyances.

Respectfully submitted,

A. J. PARK, STEWART MACKAY, ERNEST C. BARTLETT.

TEACHERS AND THEIR WORK.

Four teachers have resigned during the year covered by this report, namely, Misses Bertha M. Allen, Helen G. Fulton, Bessie M. Coburn, and Grace W. Heartz. One married soon after her resignation, another is a student in Radcliffe College, and the other two have accepted positions in schools that pay much better salaries.

The work in the school rooms is, on the whole, being taithfully done, day by day. Some of the teachers have gone beyond the requirements of the course of study, and have interested their pupils in pictures to such an extent that the children gladly contributed pennies until a sufficient amount was gathered to purchase a picture for their room.

One teacher discovered that a number of the boys in her' room were smoking cigarettes. She promptly prepared a pledge, which provided that the signer's should abstain from the use of tobacco as long as they were pupils in that school, and presented it to the boys, asking them to sign it if they thought that they could keep it. The pledge, with the signatures, was then placed where it could be seen every day.

All of the teachers conducted appropriate memorial exercises in their rooms at the time of the burial of our late President, William McKinley, that being the only school work undertaken on the day of sepulture. An appropriate souvenir, the gift of the School Committee, was presented to each child.

The principal work being done in the teachers' meetings this year is the study and discussion of Gabriel Compayre's "Psychology as Applied to Education."

VERTICAL WRITING.

One of the principal charges which has been preferred against vertical writing is that of slowness. Some recent tests, however, reported by one of our leading educational papers, seem to prove that the point has not been well taken. The results of these tests were collected by Mr. R. K. Row, of the University of Chicago, and used by him in a paper read before a recent meeting of the Federation of Commercial Associations in St. Louis.

The first table gives the summary of results in one-minute tests in slant writing; and the second, the summary of results in vertical writing, with whole classes of public school children in different cities.

In giving these tests, a short sentence was selected, and from five to ten minutes allowed for practice before the giving of two one-minute trials. The results of the better trials are recorded in the tables.

Average number of letters a minute.

As will be seen from the tables, the average for the 182 slant writers, who were nearly all adults, was 103½ letters a minute; while the average for about 600 school children, who had been trained from two to five years in vertical writing, was 130 letters a minute; a result which is surprising even to many of those who have advocated verticality in writing.

Being curious to know what pupils in our own schools could do, I asked Miss Kimball, the teacher of the upper grammar room at the Centre, to test her scholars. The result was an average of nearly 132 letters a minute, the highest being 170.

DRAWING AND MUSIC.

Some work is being done in both drawing and music in nearly every school in the town; but, as I suggested in my report last year. I believe that more effective work would be done if we had special teachers of those subjects.

We do not expect that every child will become an expert in these branches, even if we should furnish the very best instruction. That is not the object. What the object is in drawing may be best stated in the words of Mr. Henry T. Bailey, State Agent for the Promotion of Industrial Drawing, in his report of last year, when speaking of the results that should be obtained from following the course of instruction planned by him. His words are: "Acquaintance with the beauty of nature and with the best examples of pictorial, structural and decorative art; ability to draw common objects with some degree of facility and correctness; ability to recognize, annal a mass of detail, the essential features which constitute a characteristic whole; knowledge of the principles of design, and a well-trained sense of good arrangement, adequate form and harmonious coloring."

Concerning music, the French educator, Gabriel Compayre, has said that "music is to the ear what drawing is to the eye." And the object of musical instruction in the schools may be fairly summed up, I think, when we say that it is to train the child to express with greater accuracy the musical emotions with all their soothing and enchanting effects, and also to give him the ability to recognize and appreciate such expressions when made by others.

Desiring to know what provisions other towns similarly situated had made for the teaching of drawing and music, I sent letters of inquiry to the superintendents of all the towns in Middlesex County which have a population above two thousand and less than five thousand. Making use of the information kindly furnished by them, I have prepared the appended table, which contains matter in addition to that which I presented in a report, prepared at your request, several weeks ago.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

Towards the close of the spring term, the principal of the North School arranged three courses of study for that school, making use of the same studies that are offered at the Centre. At the present time pupils are pursuing studies taken from two of these courses, the English and the scientific.

One pupil, Minnie J. Brennan, received a three-year diploma last June.

At the Centre, a successful effort was made to reduce the number of classes, so that the principal might have a vacant period during the day for attending to the various details of administration. This was accomplished by uniting the third and fourth year classes in English, by making arrangements to have a class in beginning French only every other year, and by giving chemistry one year and physics the next, the latter subject being taught this year.

At the graduating exercises of the Centre School last june, seven received diplomas. One of the graduates, Carlton E. Atwood, is now a student in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, having passed all of his examinations successfully. As far as I know, Mr. Atwood is the first person to pass directly from the Chelmsford High School into an institution of collegiate rank. We trust that many may follow his example.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

The number of young people in the United States attending collegiate institutions has just about doubled in twenty-five years, so that in 1899 there were twelve hundred college students in every million of the population, or one and two-tenths students for every thousand people. That would make the proportion for Chelmsford five students, approximately. But, as Chelmsford is situated in a part of the United States noted for its educational advantages, its proportion should be larger, in order to counterbalance the small attendance in those parts of the country where opportunities and privileges of this character are confessedly meagre.

In view of these facts, I feel that the attention of the young people should be directed to the advantages to be derived from having a liberal education. At the same time they should not be encouraged to believe that every person who has a college degree will attain eminence in some of the fields of human activity. I do believe, however, that they should realize the fact that it will greatly enhance their chances in the life struggle, will broaden their outlook, extend their sympathies, and increase and elevate the sources of their enjoyment. Concerning this question, the author of a recent magazine article says: "But whatever may have been in the past, or now are, the short-comings and limitations of American colleges, they represent the main-spring of opportunity and preparation to the large majority of those who guide the destinies, dominate the affairs, and lead in the intellectual and artistic progress of our nation."

This conclusion was not based on mere hearsay, but was the result of careful investigation, which brought out the fact that about seventy per cent. of the leading men of our land, in various walks of life, had enjoyed the advantages of college instruction.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Trustees of the Adams Library

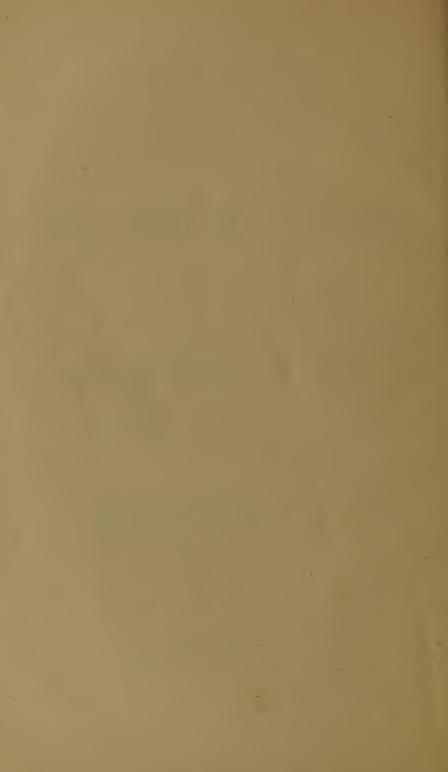

OF THE

TOWN OF CHELMSFORD, MASS.

FOR THE

Year Ending February 28, 1902.

LOWELL, MASS.: Courier-Citizen Co., Printers. 1902.

Library Report.

The Board of Trustees of the Adams Library herewith submits its annual report:

The Board was organized at its first meeting by the choice of J. Adams Bartlett as Chairman, and Miss Emma J. Gay as Secretary and Treasurer. The various sub-committees for carrying on the work of the Library were appointed, and Mr. Charles H. Greenleaf appointed Librarian and Janitor for the year. The Board desire here to voice their appreciation of his work for the past year as Librarian, and to tender their thanks for many services rendered without compensation.

Some changes have been made in the building this last year, which have been in the way of improvement, of which we may notice: the placing of the new lights on the reading table in the Reading Room, which was a long-needed improvement, and makes the Reading Room more attractive to all who use it. A large coal bin was also built in the cellar.

The appended report of the Treasurer shows the financial condition of the Library.

The report of the Librarian shows that the circulation for the last year has been 11,293 volumes, an increase of 860 volumes over the past year. The number of borrowers has been 432, an increase of 10 over last year.

The circulation of books has the following classification: fiction, 69 per cent.; travel and description, 4 per cent.; biography, 3 per cent.; useful arts, 1 per cent.; fine arts, 1 per cent.; history, 4 per cent.; general works, 9 per cent.; literature. 4 per cent.; natural science, 3 per cent.; religion and philosophy, 1 per cent.; sociology, 1 per cent.; showing about the same relative circulation as usual.

The Trustees are glad to report such a good increase in circulation, and hope it will continue as the Library grows.

The Library and Reading Room have been open 203 sessions, or 867 hours, in the past year. The number of books purchased has been 167, number donated from the State of Massachusetts, 8; from the United States Government 17, from private individuals, 28, making whole number added, 220. The whole number now in the Library is 6,558 volumes.

The Trustees extend their thanks to the publishers of the Lowell Journal, of the Woman's Journal, the Good Roads Magazine, and all kind friends who have placed publications of various kinds on the table of the Reading Room. A list of the donors of books is appended to this report.

The committee appointed to classify and index the papers and documents in the historical case have nearly completed their labors. In the last year many interesting papers have been placed in the cabinet, and we hope that many more will be placed there in the coming years.

The patrons of the Library at South Chelmsford have had their regular service as in the past, and our thanks are extended to Mr. F. M. Scoboria for the distribution of the books.

In general, the Library is increasing in its scope of usefulness from year to year. The Reading Room is more and more appreciated each year, and is becoming more a resort of students than formerly. It is well supplied with magazines and periodicals of a good quality, and should be especially attractive to all who wish to spend a pleasant hour with the current literature of the day.

REPORT OF THE NORTH CHELMSFORD LIBRARY ASSOCIATION FOR THE YEAR ENDING FEBRUARY 28, 1902.

The Library has been open to the public 142 sessions during the year, the circulation being $5,\!177$ volumes.

The number of volumes added during the same time has been: from town appropriation, 112 volumes; from income of the C. W. Flint fund, 50 volumes; from donations, 30 volumes, making a total of 192 volumes, all of which have been properly catalogued and labeled. Four volumes also have been purchased to replace worn-out books, and one volume has been discarded. The available number on the shelves at last report was 3,792. Now the number is 3,983.

Fifty-three new borrowers' cards have been issued during the year, the number of borrowers now being 306.

The demands of the Library have called for increased shelf room, which has been supplied, and a much-needed coat of paint has been on the outside of the building.

The pictures from the Library Art Club, which have been on exhibition from time to time, have been photographs of views in Amsterdam, Holland; Rome; Oxford, England; and the D. A. R.'s historic views in New England, also steel engravings by Messrs. J. A. Lowell & Co. Want of space for the proper display of artistic views of like character will, probably, prevent their further continuance.

Miss L. A. Allen, who for so long a period has been custodian of the books for the borrowers at West Chelmsford, feeling the necessity of giving up that care, Mr. Marcus H. Winship has generously assumed the burden, and the care of such books is now faithfully attended to at his store in that village. The financial statement for the year, from the books of the association's Treasurer, follows:
