ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION:

Describe architectural features. Evaluate the characteristics of this building in terms of other buildings within the community.

The lot contains two buildings with the main commercial building (CLM.345) on the west side and the garage/office building on the east side of the lot. The garage building on the east side of the lot is also one-story tall with a stone foundation, walls clad in replacement vinyl siding, and shed and front gable roofs covered with asphalt shingles. Its primary (west) façade is five bays wide with a large garage door in the north bay, a pedestrian entry with a replacement door in the center bay that is flanked by fixed-casement windows; these bays are within the shed roof section of the building. The south bay has a front gable roof and a centrally located pedestrian entry with a replacement door.

The building is an altered example of a twentieth century commercial building that retain historic integrity of location and setting.

HISTORICAL NARRATIVE

Discuss the history of the building. Explain its associations with local (or state) history. Include uses of the building, and the role(s) the owners/occupants played within the community.

The buildings do not appear on the 1907 Sanborn map of the area, but are present on the 1938 aerial map of North Chelmsford; therefore, they were constructed between these dates. The 1950 Sanborn map shows both buildings in use as bus garages. The 1949 Chelmsford city directory lists the Marinel Transportation Company at this address (then listed as 15 Groton). The company was operated by George Marinel (born ca. 1897), who lived with wife Lillian at 60 Dunstable Road. The transportation company was established ca. 1930 as it is not listed in the 1925 directory, but is in the 1931 directory. Marinel sold the property in 1951 to Thelma and Roger Welch, but the 1952 city directory continued to list Marinel as the proprietor of the bus company. Marinel's bus business remained in operation at least into the late 1950s. Research did not reveal when it ceased operation and became a consignment shop.
